Principal's Comment:

If you have a concern or complaint about something at school, here's the best way to handle it:

1. Talk to the Teacher: Start by talking to your child's teacher, or send them an email and try to resolve it at this level. They're usually the best person to help with classroom issues.
2. Meet the Principal: If you're not happy with how things are going, or if the problem is more serious, make a time to talk it through with the principal. They can help sort things out.
3. Write to the School Board: If things still aren't resolved, you can write a letter to the school board explaining your concerns. Be clear about what's going on and what you'd like to see happen. Remember, good communication is key to working things out. By following these steps and working together, we can make sure any issues are taken care of for the benefit of our kids. Thanks for your cooperation and understanding.
